PUBLIC AUCTION.
A SPLENDID INVESTMENT.

THE Undersigned has been favoured with instructions to sell by Public Auction,
TO-MORROW,
the 15th February, 1867, at 4 P.M.,
On the Spot.
All that Piece or Parcel of GROUND, registered in the Land Office, as INLAND LOT, No. 618. It is bounded on the North by the Pedder's Hill, and measuring thereon 210 feet; on the South side, by the range known as the Bank Buildings, and measuring thereon 202 feet; on the East side by Zetland Street, and measuring 114 feet; and on the West by Wyndham Street, and measuring thereon 161 feet, containing on the whole an area of 28,725 square feet.

In bringing this splendid Property to the notice of the Public the Undersigned begs specially to draw the attention of all parties who are either concerned in landed estates in this Colony or are desirous of making a safe and remunerative, and at the same time a valuable investment, that this fine site is situated in almost the heart of this City. The ground is at present all levelled and ready to be built upon, and with some careful outlay and tasteful choice of suitable Plans a beautiful row of houses could be erected thereon, which would turn out not only an ornament to the place, but, which is by far the most preferred in these days, a source of sure and certain profit and income. The locality being most respectable and healthy, there could not possibly be any chance about any of the Tenements standing on the spot being left unoccupied.

The Property recommends itself.

The terms and conditions will be either made known through separate handbills, or on the spot on the day of sale.

This establishment is provided with every requisite and appliance necessary for conducting a first-rate dispensary, all the drugs and materials having been obtained from London.

The position was expressly selected with the view to the carrying on of a large shipping business, combined with the vicinity of the new hotel which will be opened a few months.

The Dispensary is in perfect working order. The stock embraces surgical instruments and every modern appliance. The dwelling rooms are commodious and completely furnished, affording every accommodation appliable to the climate.

Part of the purchase money can remain on security.

COURT AND PUNTI DIALECTS.

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE.

THIS WORK was commenced in November, 1864, the computation of the author then being that it could be comprised in one thousand four hundred pages, and would occupy two years. Many unlooked for obstructions, chiefly of a typographical nature, materially retarded the progress of the work in the first instance, and these being overcome, the author discovered that he had underestimated the extent and the importance of the vast task he had undertaken, and that it would occupy fully double the time and space which he had at the outset computed.

The publication of a work of such magnitude, and presenting so many and such varied obstacles, seldom falls to the limited resources of one single individual, as occurs in this case. The first part of the work is now issued, partly at the request of the author and partly to afford the Foreign Community of China an opportunity of extending that assistance to the publisher, which under the circumstances is usually so freely accorded.

The Price of the book complete will be $30, and it will be published in four parts at $7.50 each. But this objection presents itself to the sale of the parts separately, should the purchaser of one or more parts not take the others, a number of incomplete, and consequently valueless, copies will be left on the publisher's hands. To remedy this objection, in consideration of the circumstances already alluded to, it is hoped that those who see fit to patronise the undertaking by purchasing the first part, will not object to signing an engagement to take the remaining parts as they appear, or should they prefer it, to pay for the entire work in advance.

HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 14, 1867.

THE announcement in the news from Japan by the present mail, that the Japanese Government had not only chartered the Azof to take to Europe its contribution to the Great Paris Exhibition, but that the Prince of MITO or STOTSBASHI, as he is otherwise called, the new Tycoon, was sending to the same destination one of the members of his own family, is a pleasant and exhilirating piece of intelligence for those who believe in the regeneration of races and the brilliant future of Japan. The Japanese are showing themselves the French of the East. As we come to know them better they develope a great variety of Gallic qualities, not the least prominent of which is the mercurial vivacity with which they seize upon new ideas, the élan of their progress in civilisation. There is something phlegmatic and Dutch about the Chinese compared to the other race, a clumsy apathetic want of appreciation which they take for contentment, and a bovine stupidity about their policy,—not that this is Dutch by any means, no long sustained parallel between the Chinese and any European race can be attempted without an insult to the western people,—which they endeavour to impress upon the world as the gravity of extreme wisdom. They pride themselves upon their slowness, and express their love of lethargic movement by saying that nine years elapsed between the conception and birth of Confucius. They are not the only people who confuse slowness with steadfastness. Our own proverbial folly, formed of compact and sententious sayings in which old misapprehensions of truth have been preserved for the delusion of subsequent generations, is rich in aphorisms which glorify dulness of intellect, but it is only the Tuppers amongst us who take these fossil remains of past foolishness for philosophy. It is not out of the nature of things, or contrary to all the contradictory lessons of experience, to suppose that the Chinese though so difficult to civilise and impress with the fundamental humility which is the basis of true knowledge, may not one day in the remotest future become a greater people than the Japanese, but one thing is certain, that before that time comes the Japanese will have been a greater people than they. People are saying here and there that the Japanese are developing too fast, that they have been seized with too eager and passionate a desire to advance along the world's great highway on which their eyes have now for the first time in their long history, been opened. This is like saying when a tropical dawn begins to break as it were in sudden flashes of light in the sky, instead of sending slow grey mists for an hour beforehand to announce its gradual coming, that day is breaking too fast, that it will not be so light at noon as if the sun's movements had been more "slow and sure." The Japanese have not been awakened the less because they have become broad awake at once, as soon as they were called.

THE long expected and long delayed edition of the Ordinances of Hongkong, has at last arrived in the colony, and as far as it goes is a highly satisfactory production. It is not quite faultless the index being printed in a confused and unintelligible manner, and the ordinances which are repealed being simply ignored. It would have been much better to have inserted their titles in the proper place, together with a reference to the date at which, and the ordinance by which, they were cancelled. Still we have now, arranged in chronological order, all the local laws actually in force in the colony on the 30th of June 1865, and if the Government will take the proper steps in time there need never again be the same utter confusion and ignorance on the part of the general public as to what has been enacted here as prevailed lately. The thing to do is to direct the ATTORNEY GENERAL to prepare an edition of all the ordinances which have been passed since the 30th of June 1865 up to the end of last year, on the same principle as that which has been followed by the editor of the volume now before us. This would give very little trouble, anyone could do it in a day with a file of the Government Gazette and the only motive for having it done by the ATTORNEY GENERAL would be that of giving it a little more authority than it might otherwise possess. This might be printed in a shape uniform with that of the volume now to hand, and issued to the public in a paper cover. Every year a similar edition of the year's legislation might be issued, and people who wished to keep their copy of the statutes complete, could have them bound when the parts became sufficiently numerous to make a volume. It would be very easy—the amusement of half an hour,—when each part came out, to go back and mark in the original volume, the old ordinances or clauses of old ordinances, which had been repealed.

The amateurs of the 2/20th Regiment performed at the Garrison Theatre last night, before a crowded house, and the whole affair was a complete success. Mr. Cutbrush as "Bullfrog" as usual sustained his part admirably and Longmore is rapidly improving in his part of "Old Grumbs." Mr. J. J. Browne is better in farce than drama, his rendering of Martin Heyward being far too tame and mechanical. Miss Annie Hill was again encored in her dance, and in the farce, Mr Browne as "Nicodemus Nobbs" caused much merriment. Mr. W. Tuckton, took the part of Mackintosh Moke with considerable success. The audience applauded loudly and seemed highly pleased throughout. The house was literally crowded and hardly a seat was to be obtained; altogether the amateurs may congratulate themselves upon having made a decided hit.

IMPORTATION OF THOROUGHBREDS.—By the Magnolia from New South Wales, three thoroughbred horses have been brought to this colony. Moses, by Vanguard out of Miss Reubens, foaled in October 1862, Charity, by Vanguard out of Cassandra, foaled October 1861, and another.

TAKING LIQUOR ON BOARD A VESSEL.

Low-apai, a caulker, was charged with smuggling liquor on board the U.S.S. Supply on which vessel he was employed as one of a gang, selling the grog to the crew and making some of them intoxicated.

Foong-shing, master caulker, stated that prisoner was employed by him on Thursday last he sent him with a number others on board an American ship which vessel witness is engaged in caulking; at about one o'clock in the afternoon he saw prisoner hand a bottle to one of the seamen on board, he spoke to the prisoner about it who made no answer but jumped into a small boat and pulled away, witness called him to come back but he refused to do so; soon afterwards witness saw that the seaman who had received the bottle from prisoner was drunk; witness searched for prisoner when he came on shore but did not succeed in finding him until this morning when he met him in the street and at once gave him in charge; witness did not see any money paid to prisoner for the liquor.

In answer to a question by the prisoner, this witness said that he did not give him the liquor to take on board.

In his defence prisoner admitted giving the liquor to the seaman but insisted that prosecutor had ordered him to do so, he did not receive any money for it at all.

A complaint was put in from the first Lieutenant of the Supply stating that liquor had been brought on board, and prisoner who had no witnesses to bring forward in his behalf was fined $1 with the option of three day's imprisonment.

ASSAULTING A FEMALE.

Sam Webb Sail, quartermaster on board the P. & O. Co's Steamer Niphon, was charged with assaulting Mun-achoy an inmate of No. 87 brothel, Hollywood Road.

Prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge and Inspector Grimes said that he came to the charge room last night with the woman, there was no constable with him and he was perfectly sober at the time.

It did not appear to have been a very severe assault but merely the result of an accident caused by skylarking, during which the prisoner broke a glass bangle and scratched the woman's arm, prisoner was therefore discharged.

BEFORE THE HON. W. H. RENNIE.

BROACHING CARGO.

David Wylie, sailmaker and Thos. O'Hara, boatswain, of the British ship Serica, were charged by Captain Innes, master of that ship, the latter with being drunk and broaching cargo and the former with conniving at the same.

William Boaman, able seaman on board the Serica, stated that he lived in the same deck house with the boatswain, yesterday morning at about ten o'clock on going into the house he saw the two prisoners drinking liquor from a bottle, he took no more notice of it and cannot say whether or not the bottle was part of the ships' cargo; he had often previously seen prisoners drinking together.

Captain Innes stated that he left the ship in the morning, on his return he was informed by his officers that the boatswain and sailmaker were both drunk, the second officer told him that the boatswain had been breaking out in the fore hold and six cases of wine and brandy had been found open and part of the contents removed.

Charles Butland, 2nd officer of the Serica, stated that yesterday afternoon he was called up out of the after-hold by the chief officer and told to go down forward and see if anything was wrong as there were some suspicions, witness found nothing wrong and afterwards walked along the 'tween decks where he saw two cases of liquor open, from one of which some liquor had been taken out; witness remained below and shortly afterwards O'Hara came down evidently the worse for liquor, witness ordered him up out of the hold, in the evening the sailmaker came to witness and the chief officer and said that if anything had gone wrong not to blame him in the matter, but they had better search the boatswain's cabin, being however very busy they neglected to do so, consequently no bottles were found.

In answer to a question by O'Hara, witness said that he never saw him attempt to steal anything at any time.

Captain Innes said that he did not wish to press the charge further, he had no further witnesses on shore but could produce others, he seemed rather in doubt what to do, he said that if he brought all his officers and witnesses on shore the work of the ship would be completely at a stand-still, but he wished to have order and discipline kept on board his ship.

His Worship told the Captain that embezzlement of cargo was a very serious charge and he must have complete evidence to convict of such an offence, which in this case certainly had not been brought before him, he should therefore dismiss the prisoners on the charge of embezzlement, if Captain Innes wished to punish prisoners for the mere offence of drunkenness, the marine magistrate would deal with the case.

Captain Innes seemed then to wish for a remand but His Worship told him the case was already closed and he could not re-enter upon it.

BEFORE THE HON. W. H. RENNIE, FEB. 13TH.

STREET GAMBLING.

Fong-aling, a chair coolie, who said he had a license but could not produce it, was arrested by acting Indian Sergeant, No. 287, at about a quarter past nine this morning in Tank lane, taking part in a nice quiet game that was going on between about a dozen men; on seeing witness they all skedaddled but the constable managed to catch the prisoner who dropped the bad cash and was now produced while running.

Of course prisoner said it was a mistake, he was a licensed chair coolie but had not been registered.

His Worship told him that if he could have produced his register he should only have fined him fifty cents, as it was however he should inflict a fine of $1 as a warning to him and others, that they are liable to be more severely dealt with if they appear in court not being registered.

ATTEMPTED LARCENY.

Atuck, a villanous looking scoundrel and an old offender, minus his queue, was placed in dock on the following charge.

Low-kow-sing, employed by some stone-cutters living in a mat shed on the Parade Ground, stated that at about nine o'clock last evening he suddenly noticed prisoner crouching down in one corner of the shed; there were a number of other men inside but they were all employed and had business there and prisoner had none; on the 8th instant, witness missed some clothing and seeing a stranger in the shed naturally felt suspicious; as soon as he noticed prisoner he cried out "thief" and prisoner immediately made a bolt out of the shed, witness followed and prisoner was stopped by a constable.

Chun-afook, a bricklayer, who lives in the same mat-shed with last witness, also saw prisoner in the shed at half past nine last night attempting to conceal himself, he had previously seen him steal some clothing from the shed on which occasion he got clear off, witness thinks this is the same man as he has no tail.

Sergeant Lawrence, was on duty last night near the barracks, and at about half past nine he heard the cry of "thief," from a mat-shed opposite the fountain, naturally thinking the thief would would make up the hill witness ran up the road towards the Cathedral and saw prisoner running across the green, witness headed him off and arrested him, prisoner is a well known character in the colony.

Prisoner could only say that he was not in the shed at all, but his worship said that the evidence was so clear he could have no doubt as to prisoners intentions, he should sentence him to three months imprisonment with hard labour, to receive twelve lashes on entering the gaol and twelve more on leaving, by way of a good bye.

A RETURNED DEPORTER.

Chun-son, another tail-less individual, was charged with breach of ordinance 15 of 1866, returning to the Colony after having been deported from thence.

P. C. 20 Thomas Peterson saw prisoner and four others walking in Taipinshan street at about half past six last evening, on seeing him they all ran away, witness gave chase and after a long run succeeded in catching hold of prisoners queue which remained in his grasp and prisoner still fled, the chase was kept until at last prisoner was fairly hunted down.

Mr. Douglas knew prisoner well as a very old offender who has been repeatedly in gaol, on the last occasion he was required at the expiration of his term to find security for nine months and failing in this he was deported about a month ago and sent to Canton at Government expense.

He was sent to gaol for one month with hard labour as a rogue and vagabond, and at the expiration of that time to be detained subject to orders from the Government.

DAMAGING THE PRAYA WALL.

It appears that a new officer has lately been appointed whose name is Pidgeon and whose special "pidgin" appears to be looking after the Praya Wall, he seems to be pretty active and daily brings up sundry individuals for driving their boats into the wall, driving pegs in thereby loosening the stones, and various other little peculiarities of a similar nature; to day he charged an individual with making the rope of his passage boat fast to a grating instead of taking the trouble to make use of the ring-bolts placed there for that purpose; the man was fined twenty five cents as a warning, it being his first offence!

Mr. Pidgeon also charged another man with throwing rubbish over what he was pleased to term the "Priory" wall, into the water, and this individual who said that he was a new comer and did not know the regulations was also fined twenty five cents, as an incentive to him to learn them as soon as possible.

ASSAULT.

Leong-see-chai, a boatman employed by Messrs Smith Kennedy & Co. was charged as follows.

Quock-aquai, licensed boatman, employed by Dr. Huyvenaar stated that this morning he was in his master's boat at Pedder's Wharf and was assaulted by some of the crew of a boat belonging to Messrs Siemssen and Co., with whom he formerly had a slight quarrel; he was on the wharf when struck; two of Messrs Siemssen's boatmen and two other men beat him, prisoner was one of those men, no words passed between them on this occasion, he called out "police" and all his assailants ran away but prisoner was arrested by a constable who was near at the time.

Another of Dr. Huyvenaar's boatmen was also beaten by Messrs Siemssen's men assisted by the prisoner who had a boat-hook in his hand, and broke it striking the previous witness.

P. C. 152, who arrested prisoner deposed to hearing a disturbance and seeing him run away.

He was fined $1 or in default two day's imprisonment.

BREACH OF THE REGISTRATION ORDINANCE.

C. C. Smith Esq., Registrar General, summoned Mak-ahing, a shop keeper in Tung-mun-lane, for having allowed another man to make use of his name and registration certificate.

C. C. Smith Esq. stated that on January 8th last, a man calling himself Mak-ahing, appeared before him for the purpose of registering house No. 30 Tung-mun-lane; in answer to the usual questions required by the Ordinance he said that he was sole proprietor of the house, and this information and other particulars have since been found to be incorrect.

Sum-ahing stated that he was accountant in the Chung-hop shop No. 30 Tung-mun lane, a man named Mak-ahing is master of the shop; he was formerly sole owner but in order to increase his business he has lately admitted three partners, Hoy-ly-ming, Mak-ayeu, and witness himself; witness can swear that Hoy-ly-ming had no share whatever in the business last year, the partners' ship was entered into in on the 8th inst, but the deed is not yet drawn up.

Defendant said that he had known Sum-ahing for some time, he had charge of all the chops and did not know anything of the clause prohibiting the transfer of a certificate of registration.

Sum-hing was then placed in the dock and fined $5 for making use of a registration certificate not belonging to him, this being the first case of the kind ever brought before the court, and his worship told Mak-ahing the defendant, that having fined his partner he should not proceed further with him in this instance but he had better go at once and have all his partners registered or he would be prosecuted under another clause of the ordinance.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Lee-akow, described as a shop coolie, was charged with an attempt at street robbery under the following circumstances.

P. C. 40, Louis Roche, stated that last evening he was out in private clothes and went into some shops in Queen's Road West for the purpose of making some purchases, he noticed that prisoner was watching him from place to place and when on his way home was still following; when opposite Hillier Street prisoner suddenly hit him with a stone he had in his hand, inflicting a wound in the head, but not a very severe, one as soon as prisoner saw that the blow had not knocked witness down he made off and ran down Hillier Street, witness followed, and never lost sight of him until he caught him in the foot of the street; while on his way to the station prisoner made several unsuccessful attempts to get away.

Loo-aon, master of the Wah-hop shop, Jervois Street, stated that prisoner was employed by him, and was in his shop at about eight o'clock last evening, shortly afterwards he saw him in custody of the police, as he was passing witness' shop he cried out that he had been arrested.

Ow-akong, a trader, living in the Lee-yune shop, has known the prisoner for four or five years as a man packer and an honest man.

Roche being recalled, was certain by prisoner's clothes that he was the man who kept dodging him. But in view of the excellent character which prisoner had received from two respectable men and as he was not known to the police, his worship said that in the absence of any witnesses it was a case of considerable doubt as to identity, he should give prisoner the benefit of this doubt and dismiss him.

Cheong-apo, the notorious scoundrel, the supposed murderer of Khader Khan, who was committed to the Supreme Court on the 11th inst. was placed in dock again to-day, it having been deemed advisable to deal summarily with him, he was accordingly sentenced to twelve month's imprisonment with hard labour and to be detained at the expiration of that term, pending instructions from the government.

BEFORE N. R. MASSON ESQ.

SUMMONS.

Leonidia Selequcira, residing at the Morque Gardens, a lady apparently with a "temper of her own" as she has often previously been before the court, was summoned by Leong-akum, a Chinese female in her employment, for having assaulted and unlawfully imprisoned her on the 12th inst.

According to Supreme Court style Mr. Masson having read over the charge in a solemn manner demanded if the defendant was guilty or not guilty; she pleaded guilty to the charge of assault but not the imprisonment.

On being asked if she had anything to state in extenuation of her offence, defendant said that while she was ill she told the plaintiff to do some work which order the latter refused to obey, she thereupon became angry and struck her.

The plaintiff then made her statement, to the effect, that defendant owed her some wages, on Sunday last she asked, for her money which defendant refused to pay and commenced to beat her; the next day she again asked for her wages and was again refused; she had the misfortune to drop her mistress' dressing case on the floor and her mistress said she was very careless and beat her again, she ran downstairs to avoid the blows and was followed by defendant who belaboured her with a broom handle to such an extent that she was still in great pain.

The magistrate told defendant that by her own admission she had taken the law into her own hands and it appeared, very cruelly too, as she had been previously before the court he should now inflict on her a fine of $25 or in default fourteen days imprisonment.

NEWS FROM THE NORTH.

Fortnightly Summary.

SHANGHAI.

The Returns of trade at this port during the month of December, is chiefly noteworthy for the great falling off indicated in the imports of Shirtings; only 195,401 pieces of Grey and 19,653 pieces of White Shirtings having arrived, against 403,373 and 44,578 respectively, during the same month of 1865. Camlets also fell from 31,058 pieces in the previous year, to 8,490; and Spanish Stripes from 11,978 to 6,242. Lustres offer almost the only instance of increase, figuring for 51,370 pieces against 30,548. Only 6,000 tons of coal were received against 12,000, and only 170 piculs of rice against 38,993. About 4,000 more piculs of green tea came from Ningpo, but 2,000 less from Kiukiang.

The Shanghai Steam Navigation Company, which has been steadily recovering from the depression caused by its many misfortunes during the early portion of its career, has now completed an arrangement by which it gets nearly the whole of the river traffic into its hands. The directors have bought the whole of Messrs. Dent and Co.'s property on both sides of the river—both wharf and dock—and their two steamers, the Hirado and Fusiyama, for Tls. 550,000, payable in instalments extending over eighteen months. They have also arranged for the purchase of a new steamer now being built by Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co. in England, and have come to an understanding with these firms that neither will compete with them on the river, while the S. S. N. Company agrees not to ply between Shanghai and Hongkong. The Company further undertakes not to raise the rate of freight beyond Tls. 5 a ton from Hankow, at which it will, we believe, be temporarily fixed, as the present charge of Tls. 4 does not prove remunerative. The Taeoh is already in their hands, the Kiangloong therefore remains their only competitor.

Nanking.

It is a peculiarity of Chinese rebels that, a few weeks after they have been reported completely crushed, they crop up again in as great force as ever, a short distance from the scene of their defeat. This appears to be particularly the case with the Shantung Nienfei, who have been frequently reported dispersed beyond all hope of recovery, and as frequently heard of sacking another city, in the opposite portion of the province to that from which they had been expelled. The Viceroy of Nanking was lately said to have inflicted on them a severe defeat, in conjunction with Tsêng-kow-tan, but now that he has succeeded the latter as generalissimo of the Imperial armies, we still hear of him in Shantung waging war, always successfully, against the same banditti. The fact that the peasantry as well as the Nienfei wear long hair, has suggested a suspicion whether the two are not identical; and whether the mysterious disappearances and revivals of the former are not due to a change of character rather than of locality. All the villages are stockaded, and admission is refused by the inhabitants to all comers, though they readily trade through the embrasures with either party alike.

Hankow.

Rebel depredations in the surrounding country as usual occupy a prominent feature in the news from this port. It had been hoped that the rebels had retreated on Honan, but the expectation seems to have been premature, and their re-appearance, to the great discomfiture of the Chinese authorities, is reported.

Kiukiang.

The foundation stone of a new church was laid at this port on the 25th ultimo by Mr. Medhurst, H.B.M. Consul at Hankow.—N.C. Herald.

JAPAN.

Fortnightly Summary.

Stotsbashi was formally installed into his new office on the 10th of this month. Up to that day, he was only administering the government as Tycoon elect. From that day he is fully endowed with the Tycoonal power. As we have previously stated, he has expressed his wish to invite the foreign Ministers to visit him at Osaca. It only remains for the certainty of their accepting his invitation to be made known to him when the invitation will be formally delivered. In the meantime, it is looked upon as a certainty and great preparations are being made for a proper reception at Osaca Castle.

Not only has Japan sent specimens of the country's products, manufactures and works of art to the Great Exhibition in Paris, but already many of the people have gone, and others are going, to be present at the opening. Stotsbashi has determined not to be behind other rulers in adding his quota of effect to the occasion. A Prince of his house, a younger brother, is to proceed to Paris attended by a suite commensurate with his rank and the greatness of the occasion. He is to arrive in Paris some little time before the opening day, and afterwards, it is understood, he will remain for a time in Europe for study and observation. It is quite resolved that ambassadors shall be sent from Japan to the courts of the principal Treaty powers, but the visit of the prince has nothing to do with that. He is the special representative of his brother at the great World's Meeting, and has no duties unconnected with this object.

On the 12th instant, H. E. D. de Graeff van Polsbroek in his capacity of Plenipotentiary for His Majesty the King of Denmark, concluded a treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation between that kingdom and Japan. The Foreign countries having treaties with this country are now England, France, America, Holland, Prussia, Switzerland, Portugal, Belgium, Italy and Denmark.—Japan Herald.

FIRE AT THE HOUSE OF THE BRITISH MINISTER.

On the 25th of January at half-past six o'clock P.M., a fire broke out in the roof of the house No. 16, the residence of Sir Harry Parkes, the British Minister. The roof ignited either from the overheating of the flue from one of the stoves, or from sparks falling on the roof and driving in under the tiles, and the flames spread rapidly through the whole building.—Lady Parkes, calmly gave directions as to the children being placed in safety, and only when she found that nothing could be done, did she leave the burning house. Much help being at hand, a good deal of the furniture was got out, and Sir Harry saved the more valuable of his papers, &c. Several engines were quickly upon the spot and with them everything possible was done, but their greatest use was in keeping the fronts and roofs of opposite buildings wet so that the showers of sparks fell harmlessly. Much activity was shown by the Soldiers of the 9th Regiment of which a detachment arrived very promptly on the scene, accompanied by Colonel Knox and other officers. Several naval officers and sailors were also present. The Governor of Kanagawa arrived very early, as did also H. E. M. Leon Roches the French Minister. They expressed their sympathy with Sir Harry and Lady Parkes, a sentiment that is most heartily shared by every person in the settlement. The fire occurred just when all the family were occupied in preparations for an evening party to which a very large number of guests had been invited.

From the Lancet.

The large room at St. James's Hall was crowded on Tuesday evening to hear a lecture from Dr. Mary E. Walker upon "The Experience of a Female Physician in College, Private Practice, and in the Federal Army." The audience was of a very mixed description, the greater portion being evidently actuated by curiosity to see and hear the lecturess; whilst a certain section, which mainly occupied the upper gallery, was as evidently bent upon getting the greatest possible amount of fun out of the proceedings. To beguile the tedium incident upon a little delay which took place ere the lady appeared, this compact body chanted with stentorian voices the Federal army chorus,—

"Glory, glory, alleluia!

As we go marching on."

Any slight monotony which the constant repetition of this war-song might have created was avoided by interspersing it with "Rule Britannia," and the more familiar but less refined "Slap bang!" So noisy and demonstrative was this part of the assembly, that it seemed likely every now and then that the lady-doctor would not be able to get through her discourse; but by the aid of a couple of stalwart policemen a moderate amount of attention was preserved.

We are so little in the habit of describing the costume of our professional brothers or sisters—that we shall be pardoned for any little errors in our description of Miss Walker's dress. So far as we could judge she wore a long dark cloth tunic, reaching nearly to the knees, fitting closely to the figure above and expanding below, open to a certain extent in front, so as to disclose an inner garment, which we dare not attempt to name, but which served the purpose of a waistcoat, and carried a watch and chain disposed as is usual among men. Dark trousers ("pantalettes" she called them) and boots like those ordinarily worn by the male sex completed the essentials of her costume. She had, besides, a light wreath of dark-green leaves upon her hair, a turn-down collar and neckerchief; whilst shirt wristbands peeped from her sleeves and partially concealed the white kid gloves upon her hands. She wore an order given her by the United States Government. She described her own costume as "a physiological dress with moral bearings" (taken, we presume, from the shoulder).

Considering that she is petite and feminine in appearance, her delivery sustained the trying ordeal of the large hall very fairly. Nor was she wanting in self-possession, a quality which was tested in no ordinary manner in the course of the evening. Her action was somewhat awkward and constrained, the frequent uplifting of her hands towards the ceiling in the sentimental parts of her lecture having anything but a graceful effect.

We cannot say much for her lecture. The early part was as prosy as anything we had the ill fortune to hear in our student-days. The description of the obstacles she met with in her course of study chiefly harped upon one string—dress. Indeed this essentially feminine trait disclosed itself throughout her discourse. One could discern the tone of a woman in whom an otherwise laudable desire for a convenient and reasonable costume was swallowed up by the little feminine vanity which accompanies singularity. And so there was enough talk of short petticoats, pantalettes and ankles to cause considerable surprise amongst the female portion of the auditory as yet unaccustomed to the "go-a-headedness" of our Yankee cousins.

After graduating in 1855, Dr. Mary Walker was seized, it appeared, with a burning desire to go out to the Crimea, and obtain the post of assistant-surgeon in our army. Happily, perhaps, for the hearts of our gallant army surgeons, she did not achieve this object of her ambition, and subsided into the less romantic but more profitable position of a female physician in New York. And here, she said, she desired it to be understood that she practised exclusively among women and children. Nevertheless, if she chanced to be the nearest doctor, she was often sent for to attend men. Wives to whom she had been of service would entreat her to see their husbands; and she was very liable to be called up at night because she "got her clothes on quicker than the 'men-doctors.'" She also frequently extracted teeth for old men. Like the rest of us, she had to encounter difficulties about fees. On one occasion a gentleman came to pay his bill, and supposed that because she was a woman her account would be less than that of a "man-doctor." But she soon disposed of this troublesome gentleman, and convinced him that as she had gone through all the usual studies and expenses of a medical education, and more than the usual difficulties, owing to her sex, if she made any difference at all, it would be to charge at a higher rate than the men. Whereupon there was great applause from her hearers, who doubtless one and all, thus reminded of their obligations, wrote long-looked-for cheques for their doctors before going to bed. Perhaps, also, they were amused at finding that the fascinations of a bloomer costume and the romantic adventures of camp life had not entirely sufficed to quench the attractions of the "almighty dollar."

From private practice, Dr. Mary Walker passed to her war experiences. Not directly, however; for she thought fit to improve the occasion by a tolerably long digression into American politics. Whether the audience included some slaveholders who objected to hearing a national institution stigmatised, or whether they thought politics a more improper subject for a lady than the diseases of men and women, they showed considerable impatience at this point, which called forth a very characteristic remark from the lecturess. "In a very few moments," she said, "I am going to say something about wounded soldiers." It was her pleasure to pronounce the diphthong in "wounded" as we do in "rounded," and the constant repetition of this word was somewhat singular to English ears. Her career in camp and hospital seems to have been more feminine than one might have expected from so strong-minded a lady. She appeared not a little proud of the influence which her sex commanded amongst the "wounded" soldiers. Many would not submit to operation, she said, without her opinion respecting its advisability, or her presence during its performance. She described, with much woman's tact, her tender care of the wounded,—how she would convey a warrior with his head resting in her lap, and asked her hearers whether, if they had a father, brother, or son wounded or sick away from home, they would not like to know that he was being looked after so carefully. Some of her most pathetic stories, however, convulsed the audience with laughter. She told how a poor yellow-faced soldier said to her, "Let me kiss you twice!" and when she hesitated, a fine young soldier who stood by his side said, gallantly perhaps, but somewhat illogically, "Let him kiss you; he is a nice young man; and the reason is that he has not slept for twenty-four hours!" whereupon, we believe (and hope), said request was granted.

Now all this was very kind and tender on the part of Miss Walker, but we can scarcely think that it proves either the necessity or advisability of the presence of young-lady doctors in an army. It is the sort of thing which appeals with great force to the feelings of hearers who have derived their ideas of war-suffering from pictures of a snug hospital-ward, with a fair lady smoothing the pillows of the wounded soldiers. It hardly represents the stern requirements of actual service, the physical labour and mental exertion of tending wounds, and deciding when a wrong decision may mean death. And we could not help feeling, as we listened to the fair lecturess, that however good and meritorious her performance of the part of doctor had been, she was after all but an amateur, with all the weak points which must ever separate such a position from the hard realities of no ive professional work.

We cannot pass over without an expression of regret and censure the riotous conduct of some of the young gentlemen in the gallery said to be students of medicine; and we notice with pain that some of them made a subsequent and most discreditable appearance in the police court.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Wednesday Evening.

Quietude has been the prevailing feature in commercial circles to-day induced to some extent by the preparation for the departure of the approaching mail, and also by the general lassitude at present prevailing. The Opium market has been very quiet, but steady, and quotations show no material alteration from the yesterday's closing rates, viz.—$620 for new, and $607½ for old Patna, $582½ for Benares, and $785 for Malwa.

The only movement in Cotton noticed, embraces 300 bales common Shanghai at $21, 100 bales Saigon at $21.25, and 100 bales Tientsin at $23.75. Piece Goods show no change the ruling price for staple articles remaining the same. Sales embrace 1,000 pieces 8/4 Grey Shirtings $3.55 240, pieces White Brocades at $4.10 and 400 pieces 7 lbs T. Cloth at $2.85. There is a slight improvement in Produce so far as the volume of business is concerned, sales reported embracing 2,000 piculs Siam Rice at $1.97, 1,000 piculs Green Peas at $2.25, 1000 piculs Manila White Sugar, at $6.62½ and 300 piculs White Sugar at $8.15. A cargo of 450 tons Sydney Coals is reported at $8.75. Exchange and Shares are without alteration from yesterday's quotations.

The Colorado, it appears will not go away from here empty handed. The agents of the line have already refused to take any more freight for Yokohama on account of the poor facilities there for promptly discharging a large quantity, and fearful of detaining her too long at that Port. For San Francisco a good amount is offering much more than was expected which speaks well for the favor with the line is already beginning to be viewed more especially by the native shippers.

It is rumoured that Mr. Edward Cunningham of Messrs. Russell & Co. is likely to be the next chairman of the Court of Directors of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

Extracts.

The Prospect of Austria.

If we have lately in these columns somewhat shunned the subject of the re-organization of the Austrian Empire, it is not because we deemed it at any time destitute of interest, or because it did not earnestly, and we may almost say painfully, engage our attention. It is only because we saw no apparent progress in the question—none, at least, which we could feel justified in confidently reporting. There are threads in the web of human affairs which all our boasted foresight, as grounded on experience, will hardly enable us to unravel; changes which it is as difficult to trace to their first causes as to follow up to their ultimate effects. It is not enough in some cases that "Providence should shape our ends," the mere task of "rough-hewing" them is above our powers. It may not be difficult for instance, to dive boldly into the future so far as the West of Europe is concerned. Happen what may, we need not anticipate any material alterations in the present international arrangements. The Gaul and the Teuton, the Latin, the Iberian, and the Briton, will, in all probability, within a century be found within their present territories. Some trifling squabbles about border lines, the extinction of minor States, much as such events ought to be deprecated, would not permanently disturb the balance which makes the Western nations all so many members of one family. But foreknowledge is at fault when we turn our eyes to the East. It is difficult to look forward to the indefinite continuance of the Turkish Empire, nor can one be free from misgiving about the stability of the Austrian Monarchy. How those two States may stand or fall, and, in the latter event, what new edifices may be reared in their stead, are the problems for which there is not even any attempt to volunteer a solution. To limit our remarks to that part of the subject from which we took our start, on what policy, home or foreign, is Austria about to settle after the disastrous struggle which shut her out both of Italy and Germany? Some of the German Austrians seem indisposed to acquiesce in the dispositions of the Treaty of Prague, and to look upon their estrangement from the Father land as, at the utmost, a temporary arrangement. For what concerns the German Provinces the existence of the Empire must be based on that supremacy of their own race over the other nationalities on which it has ever stood. They have in their favour the seat of government, the military and bureaucratic organization of the Monarchy, a superior culture, powers of combination, gregarious instincts. The will be sure to do stout battle for their precedence, but were they worsted, they would always have their brethren of North or South Germany to fall back upon. In antagonism with the Germans the Magyars aspire to the absolute independence of their kingdom on the footing of mere personal union, failing in which, they threaten a dissolution of the Empire, with some vague prospects of the formation of an Eastern State, with its centre Pesth. They have on their side the old traditions of their kingdom, their signal services performed in behalf of the Hapsburgs, their high mettle and dash in battle, and a certain aptitude for political broil and intrigue. The Magyars, however, can do no more than demolish. Did they even succeed in cutting Vienna and all the German Provinces adrift, and in making Pesth the seat of empire, they could not by their numbers, by their wisdom and real valour, govern all the non-German Austrian Provinces, or even the old dependencies of their own Kingdom. The first law of the Empire is existence, and this must needs be bound up with that capital and those German Provinces with which the Monarchy has always been identified. The Magyars could at the utmost only reproduce 1848, and that year, if it had not ended with their subjugation, would have led to the dismemberment no less of their Kingdom than of the whole Austrian Empire. The Magyars seem to be aware of this fact, and the moderate party, headed by Deak, have just put forth a draught of address which they would fain represent as conciliatory. The main point in dispute is, however, of the simplest. These so-called Moderate Magyars, demand the immediate re-establishment of their Constitution, the continuity of their rights as claimed in 1848, the sanction by a constituted Government of concessions wrested from a Government overthrown by revolution. Such demands may well be grounded on old rights and privileges; but the practical question is, are they compatible with existence of the Austrian Monarchy? The Magyars are so convinced of the difficulty of reconciling their own with the common Imperial interests that they profess themselves ready to enter into all desirable compromises. But they must have their demands admitted to the full in the meanwhile; future arrangements are left for negotiation and discussion, which may as easily lead to nothing as to anything. Should this draught of the Address be voted by the Chamber; should the terms be accepted by the Emperor, the Magyars would have all they ask for, and their Sovereign would get back only what they, in their magnanimity, might feel inclined to give up. The admission of the Magyar claims, as at present preferred, would lead to a dualism, reducing Austria to the conditions of Sweden and Norway; with this difference, however—that the two Scandinavian Kingdoms consist of two compact and homogeneous nations, while in Austria each of the component parts would be an aggregate of hostile races which either sheer force or mutual jealousy has hitherto kept together, and which would be amenable to no other cohesive policy. General events may, indeed, sweep on with such irresistible strength as either to crumble Austria or to give her a decisive bias eastward; but even if, either under the Hapsburgs or under any other dynasty, the Empire were to look for a new centre in the Lower Danube, it would hardly gravitate upon Pesth, or ground its power on Magyar supremacy. The German element being eliminated from the Austrian community, there would be a struggle among the other races, which, however it might begin, would scarcely terminate in favour of the Magyar. The new agglomeration of races on the Lower Austrian Danube could hardly take place without a simultaneous stir among the other tribes further down on the banks of the same stream. The Austrian atoms would come in collision with the Turkish atoms, and some new birth would struggle into existence, of which it would be difficult to preconceive the nature, but in which a Rouman, and not a Magyar element, would in all probability preponderate. There is nothing that we are less disposed to indulge in than any idle speculation on remote contingencies. We deem it more profitable to deal with Austria and Turkey as they are than to cast about for what may happen when they cease to be. From any immediate apprehension of danger from abroad we believe both those Empires perfectly free. Austria's policy at the present moment should not look beyond the limits of her own territory. Her dispute just now is not with Prussia or Russia, nor should her hope rest on France. The great point is the settlement of the Magyar claims. Concession or resistance may be equally fraught with peril, but no succedness of Magyar rights should prevail upon Austria to cut her own throat. No fair words of M. Deak and his colleagues should induce the Emperor to put himself at their discretion. Restore the Constitution of 1848, and you pull down Austria without building up Hungary. So long as Austria is what she is, her real element of strength lies in her German Provinces. It is in that element that, in extreme cases, she must seek her salvation.—Times.

NOTICE

THE Undermentioned shop has been established in On-land Street, outside of the Tai-ping Gate, Canton, Kwantung, above 100 Years, in which VERMILLION, YELLOW PAINT, ZINC, and all kinds of DYES are made for sale. No branch shop is ever made. As some shameless and covetous fellows privately make counterfeit goods, assuming our name in selling them, we hereby notify that in future an additional seal will be made upon each case inside and outside, in order to distinguish the genuine from the false. Gentlemen favoring us with their custom, are requested to carefully recognise these two seals.
